

E. AMARON AND G. WEBSTER FOR PRESIDENCY

CZECHO-SLAVIC INDUSTRY AND ART DISCUSSED

Mrs. Kveton, Wife of Consul General, Lectures on Native Land

BEAUTIFUL VIEWS
Lecture Held Under Auspices of Canadian Handicraft Guild

Illustrating her lecture with over one hundred and fifty beautiful slides of her own picturesque native land, Mrs. Kveton, wife of the Consul-General of Czechoslovakia, delivered a most interesting and enlightening address in the Convocation Hall of the R. V. C. last night.

The speaker commenced her talk by speaking of her native land showing pictures of the President and the prime minister, how it was one eleventh the size of Quebec and contained twice as many people as the whole of Canada.

She went on to show some slides of most exquisite beauty, showing the country in all its grandeur, with its towering mountains, its beautiful lakes, its sombre forests and its ancient buildings, dating back many centuries. Among the slides was a picture of the old church of Kitz Wensales, built long before America was ever heard of and known to the English speaking race by the celebrated Christmas Carol.

After Mrs. Kveton had shown all the physical beauty of her native land she showed the industry of the people and the interest which they took in art, particularly that of making clothes. All kinds of beautiful clothes were worn not only by the women but by the men also. All were covered with yards of beautiful lace all of course done by hand. The women do not use patterns but simply follow any design which may suggest itself to them in this way they occupy a great deal of their time.

The ceremonies of marriage which last in Czechoslovakia for three days, were depicted as was the maypole feast and a new physical training movement, which has started there, since the war and which now has an enrollment of over 300,000 men and women.

Mrs. Kveton then called upon her assistant, a delightful singer with a sweet and powerful voice, to render a few selections which were continually encored by the audience. Mrs. Kveton, as accompanist proved to be as good a pianist as she was a lecturer which is saying a great deal.

Professor Armstrong, who was the chairman of the evening then made a few remarks to encourage members of the audience to join the Canadian Handicraft Guild under whose auspices the lecture was held, and who are doing a great deal towards helping the Canadian peasants and immigrants to become contented. Prof. Nobbs in a vote of thanks to the speaker, marvelled at the beauty of her country and the happy and industrious nature of its inhabitants and said that Canada should do all in its power to aid any of its people who might desire to settle in our land. The vote of thanks was seconded by Miss Phillips after which many of the audience took the opportunity to look at the display of clothes and lace made by hand by the Czechoslovakian of Jugo-Slavian peasant.

The next of the series of the lectures will be held next Friday when the Consul-General of Poland will address the Guild.

HERBERT WINS YPRES COMPETITION

C. H. Herbert of Commerce '27 was announced the winner of the Ypres Essay contest staged by the Capitol Theatre by the judges last night. J. Manion received the second prize of a two months pass to the Capitol theatre while Leslie Stephenson, R. J. Shoelman, J. E. McArthur and J. Gordon Nelles were awarded the four single passes given for the four next best essays.

The judges of the contest were Lieut-Colonel W. Bovey and Major J. W. Jenkins.

PROF. WAUGH AT Y. M. C. A.

W. T. Waugh, M.A., Associate Professor of History, McGill University, will be the speaker at the Young Men's Forum, Central Y.M.C.A., 127 Drummond Street, at 3.15 p.m. Sunday, March 7th. His subject will be "What were the real causes of the late war?"

PURIFICATION, PASTEURIZATION SAVING LIVES

So States Dr. Harrison of Macdonald

CHEMICAL SOCIETY
"Practical Results in Bacteriological Research" Subject of Address

Yesterday the Chemical Society met to hear Dr. Harrison, of Macdonald College, speak on "Practical Results in Bacteriological Research."

"The best justifications of this field," said the noted bacteriologist, "is found in commerce. The dairy, tanning, brewing and canning, industries, as well as the animal and plant-breeding industries, bear evidence of the result of the years of study of the science."

"No study touches so many interests, no science has been so quickly taken up, as the one which benefits mankind most. The healing of man by man is one of the greatest glories, and never fails to arouse our sympathy."

"Before the days of modern clinics, it was a common saying that the prick of a pin meant death; and the truth of this is realized when we see that in the wars for every man who was killed, sixty died from infection of wounds and diseases. The study of bacteria, with the view of preventing infections caused by open wounds, scratches, etc., began in the middle of the nineteenth century, and this dates the origin of antiseptics."

"The thinning down of deaths due to diseases is amazingly great. As an example, let us take tuberculosis. The bacillus which causes T. B. was first discovered by Koch in 1882. In 1884, the death rate was 3.1 in London as compared with 2.34 in 1901, and 4.45 in New York as compared with 2.9."

"The Black Death" which ravished in England and the Continent in the fourteenth century, was well known in the time of the Ptolemies, and is still present in certain parts of India and China. The rate with which these plagues travelled is not to be wondered at when we consider that our modern-day slums are far cleaner than most cities of the fourteenth to eighteenth centuries. And these conditions prevailed on ships as well as in homes. Nelson was the first sailor to introduce the spraying of ships."

"Water, milk, flies, insects, and rats are the chief distributing means of bacteria. The purification of drinking water is now universally carried on, as well as warfare against flies and rats. Pasteurization of milk has saved the lives of thousands of infants. It is to be feared, however, that the laws enforcing pasteurization of milk are not as good as they might be."

The methods of growing better cultures of bacteria for yeast-making, brewing and fertilizers are so important that the discoverers of new processes have been patented.

Behind The Foot-Lights At "Red And White Revue"

Two men gazed through the Prison Bars. One saw the mud. The other saw the stars.

Yes when you're comfortably seated in a box at "His Majesty's Theatre," you always see the "stars," but if you're back-stage, you only see the mud, but sometimes the mud is more pleasing to the eye than the "stars."

This fact was brought forcibly home to the McGill Daily representative, when he attended a recent performance of "The Social Event of the Season." The first thing which impressed the reporter, was the order existing everywhere. It is somewhat unusual indeed very unusual, to attend an amateur performance, and not find something out of place.

In this connection the writer remembers, a High School presentation of "Macbeth." It was in the dramatic sleep-walking scene and Lady Macbeth "did her stuff" in a muck-rat coat. Someone had misplaced the nightgown.

There is also the story, of the angel supposed to be descending into a forest, (by way of a bucket) when the pulley broke, she descended rather quicker than she bargained, and broke her clavicle. We take it for granted that the angel was a female as they all are.

Many students would—like to know what the rear of the curtain is like. Well it is like a tennis court, except that there are no lines, and above,

BIO-PHYSICS HAS GROWN SINCE 1900

Dr. Parsons Addressed Members of Biological Society

Yesterday afternoon, Dr. T. R. Parsons addressed the members of the Biological Society on "The Application of Bio-Physics to Biology and Medicine" (Dean Martin in introducing the speaker drew the attention of those present to the work of Dr. Parsons).

In commencing Dr. Parsons told how, like Bio-Chemistry, Bio-Physics had made tremendous strides in the last 25 years. It was not surprising that, in bio-physics the study of ionic constitution of bodies, during functional activity, was first done.

It was soon realized that the hydrogen and hydroxyl ions play a great part in the determination of the properties of living protoplasm. Study too has shown that several mechanisms keep constant, the concentration of Hydrogen ions in the blood. This is mainly due to the "respiratory system," and indeed from a bio-physical point of view, this is the chief work of the respiratory system.

Continuing, the speaker stated that it has been concluded that Hymenogony is the origin of the provision of sodium, which combines to form sodium bicarbonate.

Next the speaker dealt with Osmotic pressure from a bio-physical point of view, passing over the advances of Donnan in 1911-1912 and that of Langmuir who did considerable work in connection with surface studies.

The address was of a highly-technical nature, and in conclusion Dr. Parsons stated his hope, that many had profited by it. It was the largest attendance of the season 1925-26.

MARITIME-WESTERNERS TO HOLD TOBACCAN

The toboggan party of the Maritime-Western Club which was to have been held in February and was postponed till after Red and White Revue week is to be held on Monday March the 8th.

The party was postponed because of conflicts with other activities at the time. It being the desire of the executive to have as many turn out as possible. This is the last gathering of the members this year. The recent fall of snow has made the slide ideal for tobogganing. Tickets are $1.25 per couple and may be obtained from C. Lewis, Commerce, J. Jardine, Medicine; J. Owen, Science; and Miss J. Robertson, M. S. P. E.

The party will meet at Strathcona Hall at 7.20 and proceed from there to the slide.

tures of bacteria for yeast-making, brewing and fertilizers are so important that the discoverers of new processes have been patented.

NOMINATIONS

For President of the Students' Executive Council: Errol Amaron and Gordon M. Webster.

For President of the McGill Union: Warde B. Allan and A. Gordon Nairn.

For Vice-President of the Union: D. M. deC. Legate and Stanley Quackenbush.

For Secretary of the Union: J. K. Sims (acclamation).

For President of the Canadian Club: Gordon Davidson, John P. Humphrey and H. P. Teakle.

For President, Literary and Debating Society: Paul Charles Casey, Jack Duckworth and F. R. Scott.

For President, Musical Association: Lawrence Hart and Joseph Persk.

For Cheer Leader: H. Kelliher Bondar, Allan B. Latham, Bill Murchison, John R. Pratt, Francis Reginald Scott and T. H. Harris.

Eight College Editors At N. Y. Dinner

Eight college editors attended the dinner in New York, yesterday and discussed the problem of international student co-operation with two foreign delegates from the Confederation Internationale Des Etudiants.

The college newspaper, representatives present at the conference on the Steamship "York" were as follows: E. J. Duffy of The Dartmouth, R. A. Eichelberger of The Pennsylvania, R. H. Field of The Harvard Crimmon, L. Harris of The New York Daily News, C. B. Howland of The Cornell Daily Sun, H. J. Kelly of The Columbia Spectator, R. I. Post of The Yale Daily News, and C. Scribner of The Daily Princetonian.

M. J. Bullinski-Junkzill and I. S. Macadam who are visiting this country to further the interests of the Confederation, were the principal speakers at the dinner which was given under the auspices of the "New Student" and the "Open Road."

R. V. C. '27 AND '28 CHOOSE SPEAKERS

The Junior and Sophomore years of the R. V. C. held class meetings yesterday at 1 o'clock. Each year elected three public speakers to take part in the competition offered by the Delta Sigma Society at its last meeting to be held on Thursday March 18, at 4 o'clock. Miss I. Seriver, M. Ferguson and M. MacSpocran will represent R.V.C. '27 and Miss G. Myers, M. Ross and R. Carter R.V.C. '28.

ROCK BREAKS PANE IN OLD ARTS BUILDING

Another cruel blow was struck at the old Arts Building yesterday, when a piece of mother earth interrupted an English Conference class of Mr. McBains. The horrible deed was committed about 4.30 of an otherwise peaceful afternoon, when a rock that had been blown up by a blast from the excavating going on in the rear of the building reached the third story lecture room, and broke a pane of glass. No casualties were reported as the stone entered from the rear window. It was reported from the Bill Repairing Hospital at a late hour last night that the patient was resting comfortably and that the fracture had been mended.

The make-up times for Saturday's matinee are as follows. Everyone must be in costume at the time allotted for their make-up:

1.00—Miss Wright, girls of opening and men of same chorus.

1.40—Miss Gray, cirlone chorus. Jimmy Wright, Miss Cameron and Charleston chorus.

2.20—Students letter act, Bobby Bell and Herb Murphy.

2.35—Roommate act.

2.50—Miss Lynch, W. A. Clark, Alice Archdale and Heart chorus. Miss James.

3.10—Light Cargo case.

3.28—Remember? act.

3.35—McGill Skit.

3.50—Sextette.

3.55—Penguin chorus.

4.10—Amazons.

4.20—Aurora chorus.

M.A.A.A. TROPHY WON BY M.S.P.E.

R.V.C. and M.S.P.E. Tie Last Game, 1 All

The new cup donated by M.A.A.A. to the Montreal Ladies' Hockey League becomes the property of M.S.P.E. The game last night in the Hollow Rink between R.V.C. and M.S.P.E. resulted in a tie, 1-1. But as the League operates on the point system two previous games won and this tie, placed the Physical Education girls at the head of the League.

No score was made in the first period, though each team succeeded in making a number of shots on goal. The ice was keen and the teams were too! The defence on the R.V.C. team deserves special mention. They reversed the puck many times in the course of play.

In the second period the players had warmed up and after the goal-keepers had been forced to show their mettle, the only score of the period was made. Miss Peg Burton of M.S.P.E. caught the puck on the rebound and by a quick clever shot got it past the R.V.C. goal. The play continued with redoubled zeal but no further score was made.

In the games against Macdonald and M.A.A.A. the Physical Eds. at both times finished with a score of 9-1 in their favour. In the third period of this game against R.V.C. they tried hard to break the spell, to make a different score but here the brilliant play of Miss R. Turley, R.V.C. defence, stopped them. Instead, the R.V.C. took the offensive and Miss Burland by a clever bit of shooting, outwitted the M.S.P.E. goal and gained a point for her team.

A point to be noted throughout the play was the back-checking by the Physical Eds. Miss Estelle Amaron, P.E. goal, did very good work, making some very difficult saves.

The line was as follows:—

R.V.C. Goal M.S.P.E. We, the undersigned undergraduates hereby nominate Errol Amaron, for President of the Students' Council of McGill University for the term 1926-27:—

R. Heartz, Centre E. Amaron, Hugh O'Donnell.

CONTESTS FOR ALL EXCEPT ONE POSITION, SECRETARY OF UNION IN BY ACCLAMATION

Amaron and Webster for President—Allan and Nairn for Union President—J. K. Sims Secretary of Union—Legate and S. Quackenbush for Vice-President—Six Men Nominated for Cheer Leader—Big Smoker on Night Before Election—Election on March 16.

At six o'clock yesterday, the period for receiving nominations for the presidency of the Council, the various offices of the Union, and the presidency of the Canadian Club, the Musical Association, the "Lit.," and also for Cheer Leader.

The nominees for President of the Students' Council are Errol Amaron and Gordon M. Webster. Those who are running for the position of Presidency of the Union are Gordon Nairn and Warde B. Allan. The candidates for the Vice-Presidency of the Union are D. M. deC. Legate and Stanley Quackenbush. J. K. Sims has been elected Secretary of the Union by acclamation.

Those nominated for the Presidency of the Canadian Club are Gordon Davidson, John P. Humphrey and H. P. Teakle. For the Presidency of the Musical Association, Lawrence Hart and Joseph Persk. Three men, Paul Charles Casey, F. R. Scott and Jack Duckworth have been nominated for the position of President of the Literary and Debating Society. For the position of Cheer Leader six men have been nominated. These are Francis Reginald Scott, Allan B. Latham, John R. Pratt, H. Kelliher Bondar, Bill Murchison and T. H. Harris.

The elections will be held on March 16th. It is expected that a great deal of interest will be taken in the campaign which will culminate in a grand smoker on the eve of election day, at which all the candidates are expected to speak, and to state their platforms.

The undergraduates of McGill are urged to note the events of the coming campaign, and make it a genuine sifting of student opinion. That the men elected, really represent the student body it is highly important that every man at McGill vote on March 16.

The list of nominees is here given, with the accompanying names of their nominators:

We, the undersigned undergraduates hereby nominate Errol Amaron, for President of the Students' Council of McGill University for the term 1926-27:—

Gilda Gray Struts Her Stuff On McGill Campus

(By J. S. G.)

The notorious Miss Gilda Gray has let the light of her passionate personality, fall on the hallowed grounds of McGill University! Yesterday noon the main driveway of the campus was the scene of a thrilling display of Curwood-esque excitement and North-West ferocity, for which Montreal is so famous in the erroneous opinion of the inhabitants of the United States. A team of four husky huskies and a sled of typical Northern construction were to be seen speeding up and down the drive, to the accompaniment of the clicking of a motion-picture camera and the shouts of some pseudo-mushers in lumbermen's coats and hairy head-gear. Gilda herself, artistically painted up to the eyes and attired in fringed buckskins and ski-boots, was perched on the back of the sleigh, her blonde cerbellum surmounted by a fur cap in the traditional manner of the Heroine of the Big Snows. We hope she enjoyed herself.

The object of the pantomime was a Pathe-news motion-picture for the edification of the credulous public of the great cosmopolitan nation just south of us. In all probability it will also be shown at the Capitol in conjunction with the sinuous gyrations of Miss Gray, on which we made some mediocre comment last Tuesday. The proceedings yesterday were greatly enlivened by an excellent dog-fight just inside the gates, one of the best we have seen for a long time, and which was finally stopped by an indiscriminating use of whips and heavy boots and a considerable outpouring of blasphemy by the pseudo-mushers. Gilda watched the affair with apparent amusement, we observed. They were probably not her own dogs.

To our great surprise, there were no representatives of the Scarlet Key Society present to welcome her, clap her on the back and offer her a ten-cent cigar. But before she left in her ear we obtained an introduction and had a few words with her. A great privilege. The exponent of the soul-devouring "shimmy" said that we had a nice university. We are so glad.

THE NOMINATIONS

In spite of the moans and lamentations from certain quarters regarding the alleged lack of interest on the part of the average student in campus affairs, the results of yesterday's nominations would seem to prove that the condition of that much discussed patient, college spirit, is not in as critical a state as self-constituted critics would have us believe. Only one position for which nominations were called for, that of Secretary of the Union, is being filled by acclamation in all the rest there will be contests. Not for a number of years has such interest been shown in an election.

When the hour of closing was reached last night there were two nomination papers in the hands of the Secretary of the Students' Council for the position of President of the Council; two for the President of the Union, and two for Vice-President of the Union. All of six men were nominated for Cheer Leader, while several of the positions had three nominees. Every one of these men are well known to the majority of undergraduates, having taken part in various other activities in the past.

This show of interest is very pleasing, and it only remains for the undergraduates to show the same interest in the forthcoming election. Judging from the capabilities of the candidates the contest is likely to be keen and close. The 16th, the date of the voting, is a highly important day, since on the result depends, to a large extent, the policies to be carried out by next year's executive.

Voting with "both eyes closed and ears plugged" is an all too prevalent practice among the indifferent, a practice that is almost as bad as that of refraining from voting altogether. Get to know as much as possible about the men running for office, then vote for the man you honestly believe to be the best, play the game square, so that the very best men will be elected to fill the vacancies.

WHAT IS SPORT?

Mankind is reputed to possess an instinct of play. We are told in psychological treatises that play has a very beneficial effect on our constitutions; that it is not only the privilege, but the duty of mankind, especially young mankind, to play. Without play, they say we grow up unbalanced. They make startling assertions with regard to its necessity. The effect has been to cajole even the highest institutions in the country into making mankind play—truly a paradoxical thing, for as soon as play ceases to be voluntary does it not cease to be play, and become work?

Sport has always been associated most directly with play. We indulge in all kinds of sports in order to satisfy this instinct. Numbers of rich city residents will call out their Rolls-Royces to carry them a hundred yards down the street to make a call, and yet will put on snowshoes and walk ten miles at a stretch, and call it enjoyable! It is certain that this instinct of play gave origin to sports, but let us review the life history of sport.

In its first stage, sport is purely voluntary and disorganized. Gradually it becomes recognized, rules are drawn up, and certain set games invented. Then it develops into a business. Money is made out of it, beautiful buildings are erected to foster it. What happens then? It degenerates.

To take an example: the Greeks developed sport from an elemental beginning. The Romans professionalized and eventually the word 'sport' was synonymous with gladiatorial combats where thousands gathered to see fierce beasts tear apart the bones of fellow-mortals of the spectators.

The play instinct, thus degraded, soon appeared to die away, and during the dark ages play is almost unknown except in mock chivalric contests. In England, the Elizabethan age introduced a new era of sport—sport at its best. During the nineteenth century sport became more and more organized, and following out its evolutionary progress, we can see it to-day developing along the lines of the ancient Roman sports—modified.

Is professional hockey, baseball, football, sport? Is it play for the performers? No, it is hard work, done merely as a source of revenue. Is it play for the onlookers? No, they take no part in the game. Is it conducive to the moral well-being of the country? Decidedly not; it introduces a system of graft unsurpassed even at our government centres. It results in an enormous amount of betting and other illegal monetary transactions.

It is this so-called sport that our universities must guard against. Any tendency, however slight, to professionalism, should be stamped out. Any encouragement to it should be stopped. Why can we not get back to the play instinct once more, and take sport for what it really is?

What is the use of making a business of sport? We are ruining it by so doing, because as sure as sport ceases to be pure play, it starts to degenerate. It is for the universities to lead the way to a revolution against sport which is not sport.

Distinguished Contributors To Record

The Alumni number of the King's College Record, just received, has contributions from many distinguished graduates of the Nova Scotia School. Including Basil King, Canon Shattford H.A. Cody, Hon. A.B. Warkurton and Robert Norwood. A hitherto unpublished poem of the latter appears in the issue:

DUMFRIES

All day I had walked up and down
The cobbled streets of Dumfries town.
Each window was a watching eye,
Each door culled me as I went by;
And every nook and cranny stirred
To music of an unseen bird
That flooded all those streets with song.

It was a day of mist and rain—
A day of tears, as though the pain
Of some immortal grief distilled
The moisture of the sky and filled
The earth with weeping, filled with woe.
The streets on which I fain would go—
Myself in tears—lamenting long.

Yea, I lamented for the loss
Of those who hang upon a cross.
Of those whom people crucify—
The Christs of earth and sky
Who bring God down in Song and Art
Revealed in purity of heart,
In steadfast thought and daring deed.

Yea, I lamented all the Lords Of Christed deeds and thoughts and words.
Who dared tradition, dared outworn
Truth with the courage of their scorn;
And in the court and market place
Thundered against the world's disgrace
Of titled tyranny and greed.

At length I left the quiet town
And followed where the Nith pours down Past brig and meadow, croft and close;
Past heather, bramble, briar, rose;
Past gowans yellow on a hill
Past ivied walls and crumbling mill:
And as I walk, one walked with me.

The flame of God was in his eyes—
The flame we know when sunset dies—
His mouth was music and each word
Had wings, as though a startled bird
Flashed from covert, upward sped
And poured down song upon my head
In an ascending ecstasy.

His words were wise, his words were good.
He spoke of coming brotherhood,
When man shall live within the law
That lifts the world from tooth and claw
That tear the blinded, bleeding flesh—
The chained Prometheus—in the mesh
Of foolish custom, waste and loss.

He sang the coming of that day
When man shall throw his creeds away—
His creeds of superstitious fears,
His creed of hates, his creed of sneers,
His creed of ignorance and pride.
His creeds that have Christ crucified
Upon each hero's lifted cross.

All day I had walked up and down
The cobbled streets of Dumfries town;
And then where Nith in beauty turns,
I walked and talked with Robert Burns.

—ROBERT NORWOOD

MEDITATIONS

Love is a form of mental intoxication which makes the wisest man act foolish and a foolish man appear simple-minded.

It makes a student go three times over his chin with the safety razor.

It makes him forget that he has forgotten his overcoat.

It makes him blissfully oblivious to the amused glances cast in his direction when he is holding his be-loved's hand at the basketball game.

It makes him cunning in his evasions to his roommates and his classmates, and yet forget to rub the powder off his coat lapel.

It makes him say "yes, dear," to Central, let the barber put scented water on his hair and sit gazing for five minutes at his watch without ever registering the time.

It makes him like being that way.

BEHIND THE FOOT-LIGHTS AT "RED & WHITE REVUE"

trance can only be obtained by a twelve-foot ladder. The North pole is on a strap, and is pulled by hand.

Perhaps the most interesting part of an experience behind the curtain it watching the "fair young things" just before the hand clap is given for them to go on the stage. They do appear to be very composed, although highly coloured, and painted, yet they do not seem to have control of their members.

They seem to worry continually about their costumes, especially their "hearts." Who wouldn't blame them.
They ask one another if they're "hanging properly." The reporter tried in vain but could not find a translation for this. Also before advancing before public, they dance pervertedly and it is the writer's opinion that dancing done before the curtain ascends, is of a class far superior to that after it does ascend.

This nervousness was not noticeable in the male actors, probably because they can "smoke away all care."
Probably, the most difficult part of production, is the development of a proper lighting effect, and this has been well done, by the producers of the Revue. From the rear-stage there is only one comment that might be made and that is that the orchestra is rather slow in starting, thus making the show lag slightly, but this is generally noticeable, even in the best professional presentations.

However, words cannot describe the scene behind the scenery; nor can anyone give an accurate description of all that occurs for as a wise man once said "I have but two eyes."
Yet two eyes will enable you to see all that should be seen, and attendance at to-day's "Revue" will guarantee you a smile from (y) ear to (y) ear.

"Why do people say Anne has a shady past?"
"She's always liked dark rooms."

AN UNDYING TRIBUTE TO CANADA'S HEROES IN THE WAR!

THEY MARCHED DOWN THE HIGHWAYS OF FRANCE WITH A SONG ON THEIR LIPS AND A PRAYER IN THEIR HEARTS—SOME NEVER CAME BACK BUT THEY LEFT A RECORD WHICH WILL BE INDELIBLY INSCRIBED ON THE SCROLL OF TIME.

"They shall grow not old as we that are left grow old. Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun and in the morning we will remember them."

NOMINATIONS

Nominations for representatives to the Athletic Board of McGill University are herewith called for. Two representatives to be elected.

These nominations must be signed by at least twenty-five members of the Students' Society, and be in the hands of the Secretary of the Students' Council at 6 o'clock P.M.,
Friday, March 12, 1926.

Elections will be held on March

The Annual Italian Trade Fair, to be held in Milan, Italy, during the month of April, has the support of the Italian Government and all the commercial and industrial associations of the country. Judging from the applications already at hand from those wishing to participate it should be a marked success. This exhibition should appeal to Canadian manufacturers and merchants who wish to increase trade between the two countries.

The next monument should be erected to the man who dies a natural death.

He is a valuable one of God's frozen

"Ypres" Showing At Capitol Is Grimly Real

The film "Ypres" is a plain, unvarnished tale—no heroes, no Hollywood fireworks or glitter—told with a simplicity that is almost stark and yet it grips you as no lavishly adorned film spectacle will ever grip you, because it is real. That is what the producers have achieved. They have let "Ypres" tell its own epic; the homely heroism of the British "Tommy" speaks for itself. The result is stupendous. It has been said that romance in war ended with the Great War. When you see "Ypres" you will not believe it. The brilliant red coat on its galloping steed, with his sabre flashing in the air was romantic, no doubt. But not half so romantic as the "Tommy" in a mud-filled trench, reaching for a "tag" with one hand and scratching with the other, while the shells whistle overhead and winged death is everywhere.

The task that faced the producers of "Ypres" was of course a tremendous one. To tell the whole story of the salient in detail would take from now until almost doomsday. What the producers have done is to follow the outstanding episodes on the issue of which the holding of the salient critically depended; they were the opening of the First Battle of Ypres, with the loss and recapture of Gheluvelt; the capture of Hill 60; the second battle, with the introduction of poison gas by the German; the launching of trench raids which were of vital importance in sapping German morale; the grand assault on the Messines Ridge, and finally the attack on Passchendaele. In dealing with individual heroism, the producers, we are told, chose the deeds by those men whose heroism has been recognized as having exercised a decisive influence on the issue of battle. A well chosen overture by the famous Capitol Orchestra under Perry Shea; atmosphere prologue to capture and others will also be shown.

Arriving at Vancouver recently on the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Russia," three scientists, Captain C. Donnelly, of Yale University, and Wilson Powell and Adrian Rubel, of Harvard, told of photographing the total eclipse of the Sun at an approximate cost of $30,000 a minute. The three astronomical students were members of the Swathmore college expedition who journeyed to the island of Sumatra to photograph the latest eclipse of January 14.

Excavated from the drifting sands of the Libyan desert in Egypt, the paws of the Sphinx have been brought to light after many centuries. The passengers making the World Cruise on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland were among the first to see the excavations which have been going on for the past year under the direction of the Harvard Foundation. It is noteworthy that the Sphinx's head is protected by scaffolding so as to hold it intact during the excavations.

Again Visible After Centuries

Le Petit Parisien

Dear Monsieur McGill Daily:—

I have go to ze Red and White Revue, and I have come back dazzle. Par la monde, I used to think that ze girls here were fairly pretty but nothings like our filles de Paris, but when I see them in red and white dress and short skirt, and when they kick high with ze great grace, I am think they beat ze Parisiennes. And now, Monsieur Public manager Mc-Lem, I have mention ze pretty girls, are you satisfy?

Well I hear many remarks from other McGill students, who sit near me, and they are all delight in ze show. I will repeat one conversation.

1er STUDENT. Why in hang is ze overture so long?

2ieme STUDENT. Why, it is ver' nice, all ze fox trot tune.

1er S. Oh, there go ze stage—oh baby, ain't that woman in the middle a wow!

2er S. She can certainly shake a leg when she wantater.

1er S. That one's a beaut over there—she's in third year Arts.

2ieme S. Third year Arts! So's yer old man.

1er S. (after pause) Ain't it the cats way these people come in late—they spoil the whole show. (I heartily concur)

2ieme S. (after another pause). Gosh, that sea scene makes me feel seasick. Ye know, Gordie, I was so sick on that last trip I took that they thought I was a plant I was so green, and—1er S. Shut up for Gawd's sake, shut up.

Les vloz from ze back. Yes shut up or we'll throw you out.

2er S. What are all them girls doing in those boats?

1er S. Those ain't boats—they're crinoline gowns.

Yes, Monsieur Editeur, I will stop ze conversation at that point.

But everything is so funny in ze revue that I cannot mention one thing which stand out. But, I will let you into great secret—I am very sorry that I did not see Miss Cartwheel there. Her magnificent strength which was impress upon me ze morning I went into R. V. C.—I have never forget it.

But when I go to sleep I see in my dreams ze vision of Mr. Grid-iron Gus which come out dress as Russian and say that ze peasants of Russia have no food for years. And gradually I see Monsieur Gus transform and ze face of Miss Cartwheel appear in ze costume!

Yours sincerely,
AUGUSTINE DEBUCKETTE
